During the period under review, our portfolio shifted from a defensive bias with a high cash balance to a more aggressive recovery stance. Unprecedented government policy actions have succeeded in restoring the health of the credit markets and companies are once again able to refinance and raise fresh equity. The dramatic policy response of cutting interest rates, QE and fiscal stimulus has recently led to an improvement in a range of economic indicators which suggests that the recession is coming to an end and a global recovery is underway.

The path of economic adjustment is well advanced, companies have swiftly retrenched and households have repaired their balance sheets. A recognition that the trough in the corporate profit cycle has passed gives us confidence that equities have plenty of support from a valuation perspective. We now expect the pace of economic recovery to surprise on the upside into 2010.

SVM's UK100 Select Fund maintained an overweight position in basic resources and oils which are heavily geared into any economic recovery. Our holdings in financials increased with the addition of Barclay's Bank and HSBC. Overall we maintained our structural preference for quality companies with growing market shares and strong balance sheets such as Compass, Tesco and Cadbury, which will be long-term winners over the coming years. However, we have progressively raised our exposure to recovery stocks with investments in Invensys, Cookson, Inchcape and Pace, which all outperformed during the period. With a global recovery underway, business and consumer confidence improving, we are confident that our portfolio is well placed to outperform in the second half of 2009.
